An Overview

The rest of this slide lies beyond the edge of the viewport. Nothing there flows onto a next slide: the viewport clips, and `pan` is what brings the rest of the canvas into view.

To the Right

The canvas is the union of the body and everything placed on it, clamped to at least the viewport.

And Further Down

A pan is not clamped to the canvas, so a slide can scroll a card to the middle of the viewport rather than to its corner.

An Explicit Canvas

This card is placed inside an indented block, and the explicit canvas makes room for it.
